“Responding to Emergencies”

This week we mark the UN World Health Day. When most of see great needs in the developing world we want to respond, but we can get anxious about where the money goes and what projects it funds. Today’s film describes how the money raised during Lent by the Catholic aid agency, Caritas Australia, empowers local Bishops and people in the third world to set their own priorities, and respond as quickly as possible to emergencies. It shows us how our support of Project Compassion is put to work where it’s needed most.

“The Pilgrimage”

This week we mark the Church’s holiest week, when we remember the life, death and resurrection of Jesus. And in the film from Albert Street Productions, we make a spiritual journey, or pilgrimage, to Israel - the place where the momentous events we remember this week, all occurred. No matter what your faith or belief we hope that this week is a special one for you too. You’d be very welcome to join your local Catholic community for our Easter celebrations and meet fellow travelers in the on-going pilgrimage of faith.

“Faces”

We are now in the Church’s most joyous season, as we remember all God has done for us in Jesus. The best way the Easter story is told in the here and now is to look at how its message still inspires three ordinary Australians who as a result of their faith do extraordinary things. In response to the Easter story the Catholic Church is, outside government, the largest provider of education, healthcare and welfare across the nation.

“Pacific Padres”

This week we’ve been remembering our war dead. Among some of the unsung heroes of war are the chaplains - the men and women who care for the spiritual needs of those in the armed forces – at home and abroad, at war and in peace. Chaplains are often called “Padres”, and in this film from Albert Street Productions, we look at the inspiring story of three World War II Padres and the extraordinary impact they had on the young soldiers given into their care. Most people wouldn’t know that we have an entire Catholic diocese dedicated to the care of our service men and women and their families. And in many dioceses there are Catholic veteran’s organizations which look after our returned servicemen and women. Contact your local Catholic parish for details.
