Priests 24/7

This week a large number of older priests throughout Australia will celebrate the anniversary of their Ordination. Some people might like to join the 3,000 priests, 60 Deacons and 1,000 brothers who serve the Church and Society in a full time and public way. This film from Albert St Productions looks at the life of the overwhelming majority of priests who faithfully and generously work hard for God's people 24/7.

Freedom or Madness?

This week the Catholic Church celebrates the memory St Benedict, who is often called the father of monasticism. One element of monasticism involves withdrawing from the world to a place of silence and prayer. Some people think that this movement is running away, or self-indulgent. In this film from Albert St productions we will ask of hermits and those who want to live more contemplatively – across a range of faith tradition - are they free or mad?

Nuns in the USA

This week the Catholic Church celebrates the memory of St Mary Magdalene, who was not a prostitute, but one of Jesus' most faithful disciples. Some of Christ's most faithful disciples today are religious women, or nuns. This film lifts the veil on the extraordinary and diverse lives and ministries of nuns in the Church today.

Hazaribag Jesuits

This week we remember St Ignatius Loyola, the founder of the Jesuits. Today these priests, brothers and students are in nearly every corner of the world trying to raise people out of poverty and alleviate ignorance. In this film from Albert Street Productions, we look at the story of how in 1951 Australian Jesuits went to a desperately poor and remote corner of India and through education and pastoral care have turned their lives around and given them hope.
