

New Chairman for National Catholic Education Commission

The General Secretary of the Australian Catholic Bishops' Conference, Father Brian V. Finnigan, has announced the decision of Conference to appoint the Reverend Tom Doyle as the new Chairman of the National Catholic Education Commission (NCEC).

Father Doyle succeeds Dr Peter Tannock as Chairman of NCEC.

A priest in the Archdiocese of Melbourne, Father Tom Doyle is currently the Chairman and Executive Director of the Catholic Education Commission of Victoria. He has served as Deputy Chairman of the NCEC for many years and is a very experienced educator and administrator.

The National Catholic Education Commission is responsible for formulating policy at the national level in respect to Catholic Education.

Father Tom Doyle has been appointed as Chairman for a four year term from 2001 – 2004.

Contact phone number: 03) 9267 0228